Villa Antheor

With my family, I often visit the South of France, in particular the French Riviera. We go to a place by the Azure sea, with red, volcanic rocks that eject themselves out of the waters. It is a beautiful place. Imagine first the blue sea, then the red rocks, with the beige sand beaches, the rolling hills full of dark, greenish hills dotted with villas, and in the background, volcanic rock mountains of about 50 metres. It is a picturesque sight, henceforth the many artists that are lured in by this place. This is why I had the idea to construct a villa, which would be situated in that magical place. It would be situated by the sea, behind those red rocks, and inside a magical, Italian-like garden, full of statues. The villa itself would be of an Italian and Provençal style, with a large terrace and balcony. It will be quite large, and will also include a large swimming pool situated amongst the rocks, semi-surrounded by Classical porticos.

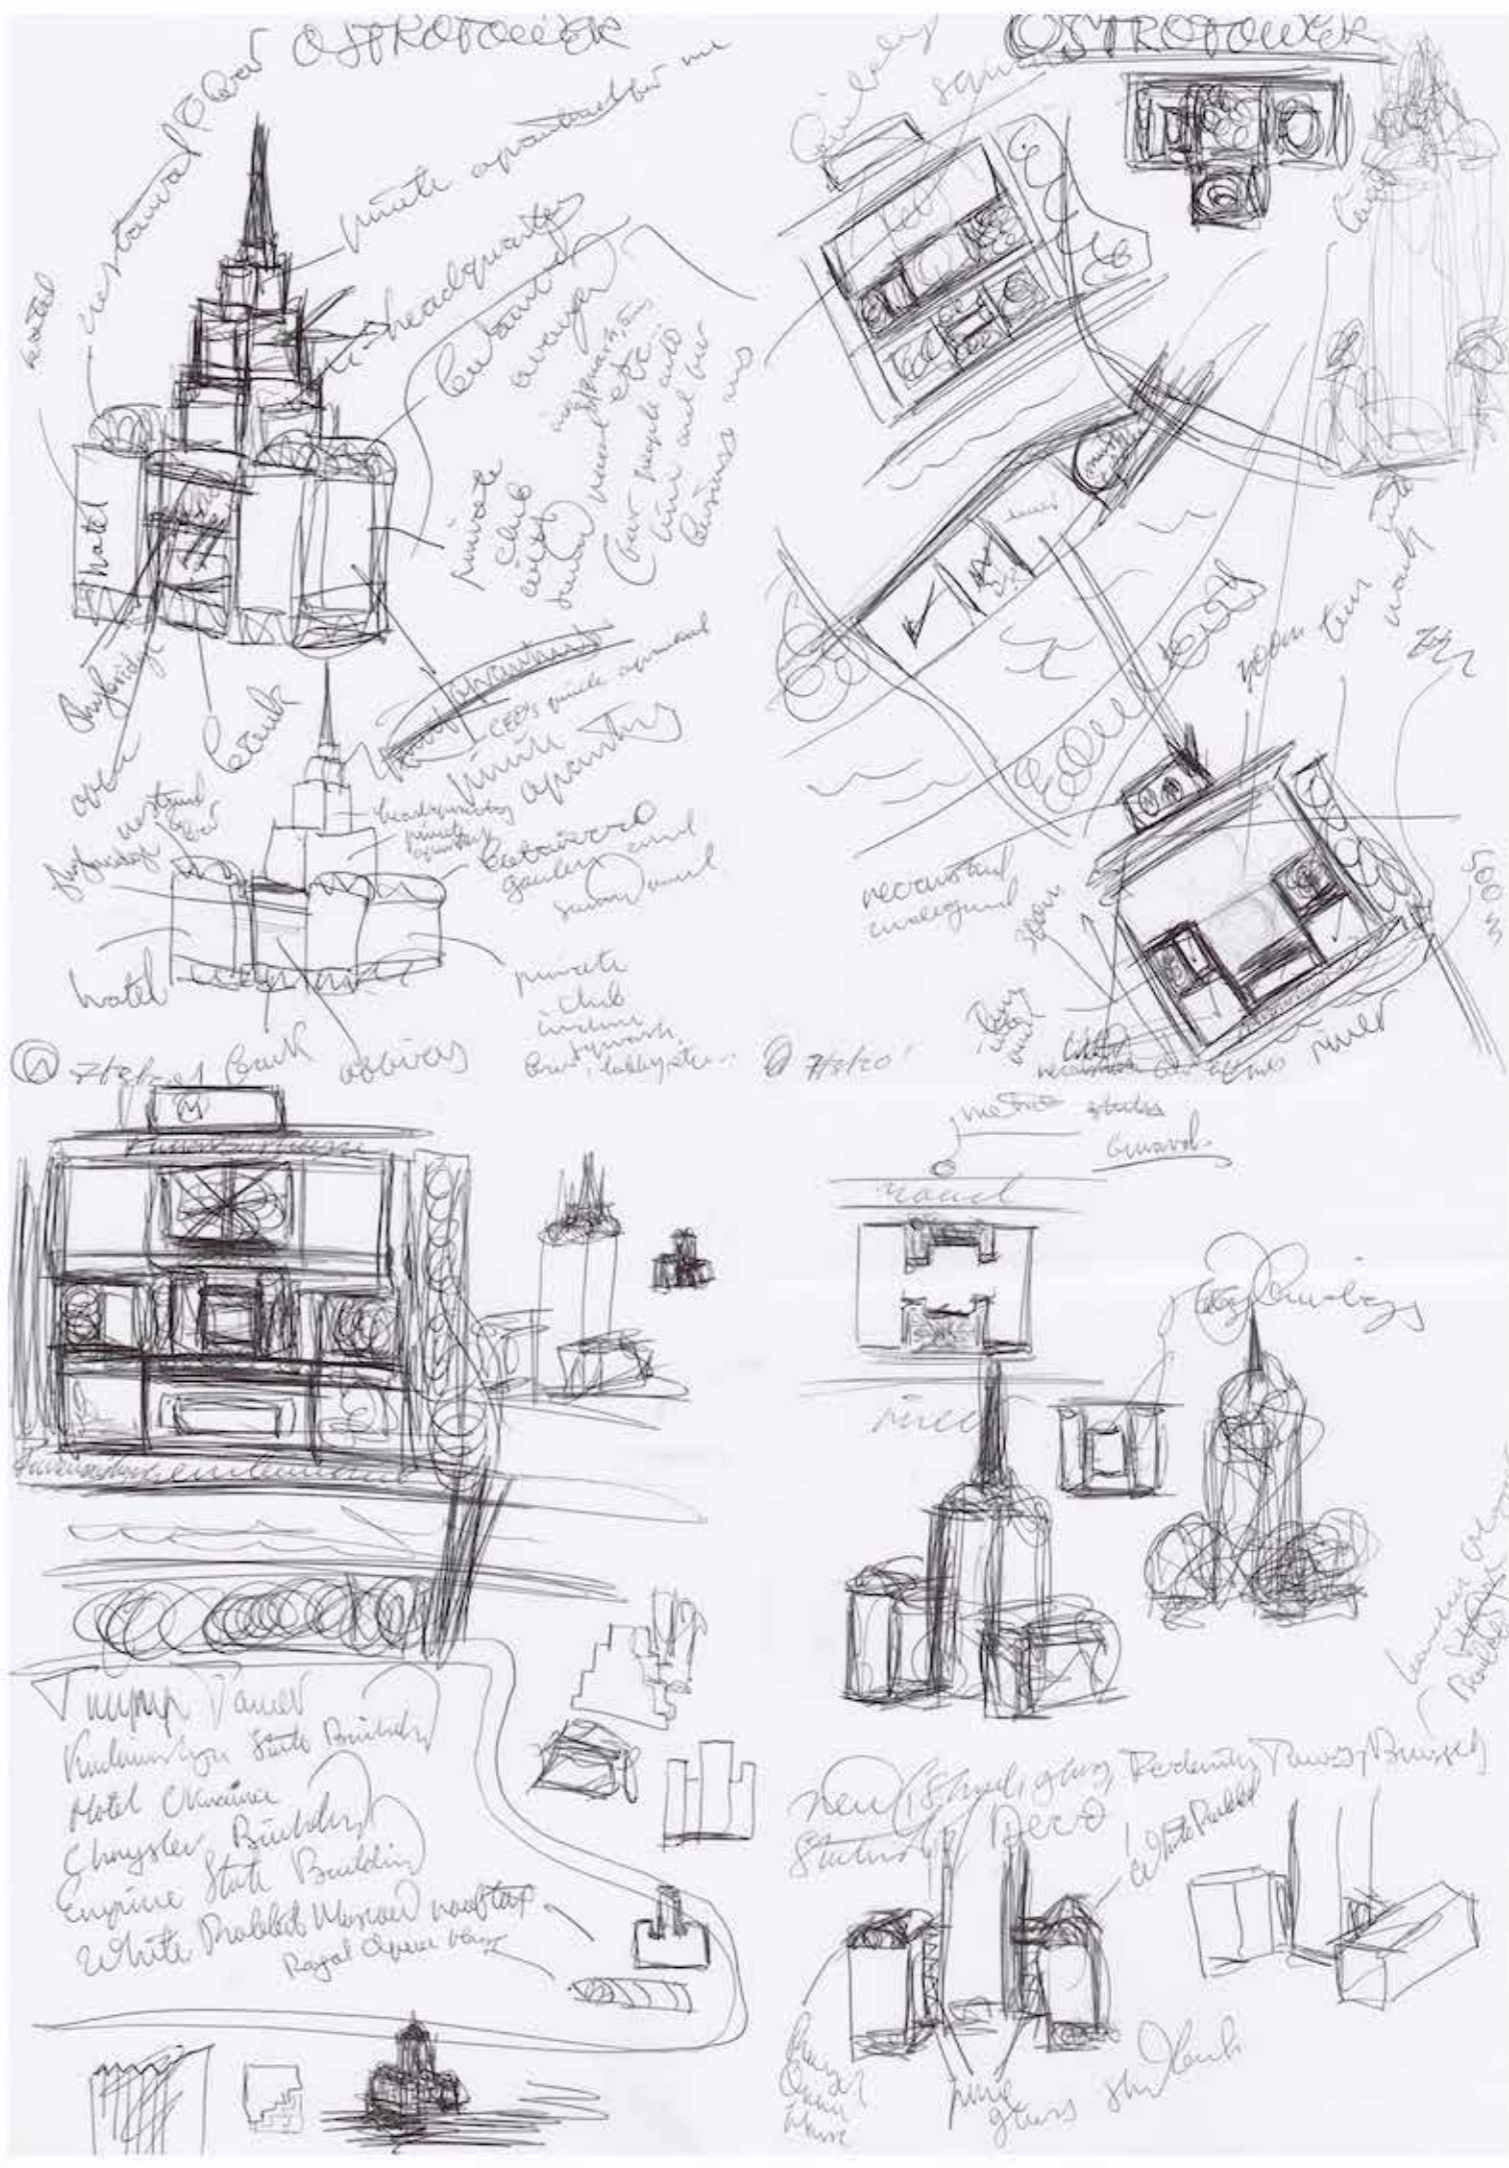

ARCHITECTURE PROJECT

Ostro - Tower

The Ostro-tower, or Tour Montaigu, is a project that I have produced after studying the architecture of high-rise buildings. At the time, I was really fascinated the whole concept of American Skyscrapers, henceforth my desire to create a monumental project. Some of my inspirations were 70 Pine Street, Empire State Building, Kotelnicheskaya Embankment Building, and the Hotel Ukraina. The style would mostly consist of an early 20th century aesthetic, and the tower will have a dome with a spire on it, and the building will be around two hundred meters in height. It will have two adjacent buildings that will be about forty meters, and both will have a glass roof. The tower will house a bank at the central building's ground floor and the first couples of floors, whilst the the higher floors will consist of offices, a hotel and space for a company's headquarters. Meanwhile, the adjacent buildings will house private apartments and apartments for workers who would have the choice to reside in the building. There will be two private member's clubs, one for the employees and the other one for non-staff. Those two adjacent buildings will – or at least one of them – have a five star restaurant, whilst the other will have a museum.
